Why Do I Not See My Classes In Blackboard Learn?

If you do not see your classes listed under "My Classes" this is most likely due to either the course is not yet available, or you have not been enrolled in the course.

At the beginning of a school year, or the beginning of a new semester, teachers will have their Blackboard Learn courses listed as "unavailable". This allows them to set up the necessary content within the course before students and parents enter the course for the first time. If you are looking for your course before the start of school, or before the start of a new semester, it is likely that the teacher still has the course unavailable. Once the teacher is ready, he/she will make the course available and you will see it listed under "My Classes".

If you do not see a course listed under "My Classes" that you expect to see, it is likely that you have not been enrolled into that specific Blackboard Learn course. We ask that you contact your FSC or your school's principal to let them know of the problem.
